Pentecost Sunday

Locked doors and locked hearts do not deter the Risen Christ. Literally and figuratively, the apostles were locked behind closed doors. They were locked in the upper room, fearful of the authorities. They were also locked inside their own grief...and Jesus broke through it all. He appeared suddenly in their midst and shared with them the first gifts of the Resurrection: forgiveness and peace. He commissioned them to share those gifts with others. He sent them out, as the Father had sent him.

The peace of the Risen Lord, and all the gifts of his Spirit, would unlock the door of the upper room—and also unlock the disciples' hearts and lives. We see this in Acts, where the peace and joy they have received are communicated to others: Jews and non-Jews, strangers from many countries, people of many languages. The gifts the apostles received were sharable—more than that, contagious—and they were available for everyone. Not just a select few. Everyone.

The apostles spoke a universal language on Pentecost: the language of love, peace, forgiveness, hope...the story of God's mighty deeds...the call to discipleship, to a life of love and self-giving. This call could be heard and understood by everyone: a call into relationship, with Christ and with one another.
